

From: nealweemsbest [nealweemsbest@peoplepc.com]
Sent: Sunday, August 01, 2010 11:44 AM
To: Cameron, John
Subject: Re: FW: ZODIAC CIPHER DATED 4/20/1969

When John Cameron approached me with the 13 symbol name of the Zodiac, I was excited to solve it. Assuming John's research was correct and the Zodiac was indeed Edward Wayne Edwards, then it would be a process of solving the riddle from two directions simultaneously. It soon became obvious that this was the essence of the puzzle from the start, that the Zodiac code was only solvable once a suspect name was available. The writings sent to newspapers and police agencies were found to be teeming with clues as to the solution, but until the central Zodiac blueprint was discovered, the clues were only random bits of madness.

I started with a few very lucky and extremely helpful clues that were just dropped in my lap. 1) John mentioned that Edward, in his book, admitted to a keen interest in ancient Egyptian religion. This is a subject that I've been fascinated with since the early 1980's. I have read "The Book of the Dead" in the original many times. 2) Just prior to working on the cypher, I talked to my mother on the phone, and she told of a children's book, very artistically illustrated, that had the letter Z pointing in the wrong direction. 3) The solved 3-part cypher mentioned carrying souls to the other side in the afterlife. 4) In his novel, Ed strongly points out that his foremost desire is to be the absolutely most evil criminal. 5) The Zodiac is an egomaniac. He is about Me-Me-Me. 6) Ed's IQ is very high and I have studied TV shows concerning the spiritually evil criminal. 7) I noticed that the Zodiac was into symbols concerning basic centrality. I have studied this area for years, although not from the evil point of view. 8) Two faces were on all the envelopes he sent, not two postage stamps, but two faces.

The Zodiac Solution.

1. It is all about his name, about his name ringing through history, even into the afterlife. ("My name is --")
2. It is about the conflict between good and evil. (Zodiac vs. SFPD)
3. It is about mirror worlds. (this world and the afterlife)
4. It is about gaining power through the death of others. (Satanic spirituality)
5. It is about being found out at the right time. (The letters are full of clues)
6. It is about proving how smart he is. (cryptograms)

Questions.

1. Is it a coincidence that an egomaniac has a first and last name so similar?
2. Is it possible that the killer played mystic games with his own name?
3. Is it possible that the killer made sure enough clues were available for the solution to the puzzle?
4. Is it a coincidence that parallelisms are found everywhere you look in the letters?
5. Is it possible the killer is far more intelligent than suspected?
6. Is it possible that the dual conflict in the killer would evidence itself in all his thoughts?

Facts and Clues.

1. The Zodiac crossed the words slaves and paradise.

p
a r slaves
d i c e

Draw a circle around this and it is the zodiac symbol.

2. The symbols in his long cryptograms were often letters in their mirror-image.
3. The symbolic logic of evil is similar to that of religious mysticism.
4. The Zodiac used the zodiac symbol to substitute for the letter d.
5. The solution is not one a supercomputer can devise.
6. The name Edward Edwards has 13 letters, but the letters are certainly scrambled.

7. Centrality's doorway to the afterlife in Egyptian religion is represented by the ankh symbol, which in Western cultures is the infinity symbol, which is two mirrored S'es overlapping. S is the odd letter in the 13 letters of the name. S should be the central letter.

8. A small case r looks like a small case n.

9. An M is an upside-down W.

10. The previous puzzles used e as an e.

11. Not all of the symbols in his coded name which looked like circles with figure-eights inside were actually the same.

One looked like a figure-eight or infinity symbol, but the others had what looked like face-to-face D's.

12. The Zodiac was meticulous in scribing his symbols. Such errors may have been intentional.

13. The Zodiac displayed bi-polar personality traits.

14. The Zodiac made sure he used a zodiac symbol in his name, although he had hundreds of others to choose from.

15. Later, after solving the master-diagram, I learned that Ed chose aliases such as Rose, Love, Day, which are symbols and high ideas representing centrality, as does the zodiac symbol. The Chinese character for "day" is in fact an adaptation of the zodiac symbol.

16. Ed is a Gemini. The Twins.

17. The Zodiac had attacks of violent proportion in which his good side would be in battle against his evil side.

18. The Zodiac buttons were important to him, not the word ZODIAC, but the symbol.

19. Much of a person's writing does not necessarily represent a person's deep thought when that person is a liar and an extreme control freak.

20. A master manipulator will have a splendid finale worked out in detail even before the show begins.

This is a brief summary of a few of my thoughts.

Questions?

I hope this helps someone,---

Neal Weems Best.

August 1, 2010 11:43

AM